Parents,

Governor Kay Ivey's announcement today solidified the difficult reality that we will not be returning to campus this school year. While this was a scenario we had been preparing for, we were so hopeful that our halls and classrooms could once again be filled with the students we hold so dear. As we've said before, we are social distancing – we are not disconnected. Learning has continued and for that, we are grateful.

That being said, we need to move forward to the end of the year procedures. While all plans are not finalized, we can provide the following updates.

For information for lower school students, please click here or see attachment.

Thank you for your prayers, patience, and partnership during these last seven weeks. Our parents, students, teachers and staff have weathered this storm with grace, perseverance, faith, and love. You are ALL to be commended.

In His Name,

Merle Henkel
Interim Head of School
